NATTY UNIFORM WORN BY GIRLS IN BAKER'S REALM

MISS FLORENCE CHRISTMAN.

Of 525 Third street northeast, will be able to say, "I was the first girl to wear the uniform of the United States army," if Secretary Baker approves the dress designed by women of the War Department.

When Secretary of the Navy Daniels designed a uniform for girls working in the Navy Department he started something. And it is this: Simplicity in dress for women.

Helen, Ruth, May and Sue—the girls who are pouncing the typewriter in the Navy Department—all look alike, because they all dress alike.

Girls employed in the War Department were determined not to let the navy girls get ahead of them in the matter of dress, so they designed a uniform all by themselves without the assistance of Secretary Baker.

Here is the uniform:

Cap—Forest green with broad tan band of cloth and tan leather strap and visor.

Coat—Forest green serge of light summer weight, cut loose, with patch pockets fastened with tan buttons and rolled-lapel lapels.

Skirt—Same cloth as coat, with an inverted plait in the back, giving the effect of trousers when the girl walks.

Puttees, showing beneath the skirt—Tan to match shoes.

Shoes—Heavy English walking boots, tan and laced almost up to the edge of the skirt.

Insignia—An American flag with sword crossed across it, in red, white, and blue on the left sleeve.

Girls wearing this uniform, like soldiers, all look alike. There may be a pretty face between the cap and the high stiff collar, and there usually is just that.

Mrs. Cecelia McQuigg, who designed the uniform for the girls, tells of the benefits that will be derived from wearing them. As stated by her they are:

"Economy. That means that they won't have big laundry bills to pay every week. There is no laundry to a uniform. They won't have to make changes in dress, so can save expense."

"Simplicity. There will be no wardrobe of finery for work, and competition in dress."

"Serviceableness. A uniform of this sort can be worn year in and year out. That is, it can be worn for more than one season. In the summer the coat can be left off. In the winter the coat can be added."

This uniform, which has been adopted by the Women War Workers of America of the War Department, is expected to be approved by Secretary of War Baker, and thus become the official uniform of the War Department for girl war workers.

Y. M. C. A. CO-OPERATES WITH SALVATION ARMY

In all of its war relief work the Salvation Army is co-operating with officials of the United States army and navy, with the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross and other agencies conducting work for the soldier boys.

There is an understanding between the Salvation Army and the Y. M. C. A. in order that there will be no duplication of work in this country or in France.

For the training camps the Y. M. C. A. erects huts inside the cantonments and the Salvation Army erects huts where the need is manifest in the community adjacent to the camps.

One hundred and ninety huts have been built at camps and used for religious and social meetings and for the comfort of soldiers and sailors of the allies, according to a report from the international headquarters of the Salvation Army.

BARS NEW INDUSTRIES FROM EASTERN STATES

The first industrial barred zone has been staked off by the Fuel Administration. It was learned today.

In this district, which includes New England, eastern New York, eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware, new factories and extensions will be prohibited unless the of most urgent character.

Limited transportation facilities make additional shipments of coal and supplies into this district impossible, officials say. The line bounding the congested Eastern district is marked by Schenectady, N. Y.; Binghamton, N. Y.; Williamsport, Pa.; Altoona, Pa.; Harrisburg, Pa.; and Baltimore, Md. Eastern Maryland is practically all within the prohibited area.

Fuel Administration officials will also exercise close check on establishment of new plants throughout the entire country.

To limit coal consumption next winter Eastern States have been assigned quotas of bituminous coal to which they must be held.

Do Your Shopping Early and Relieve Congestion

At the present time with the help situation in such an unsettled condition we find it extremely difficult to serve all of our customers efficiently AT THE SAME TIME. We say "at the same time" because most of the shopping is done at the Sanitary Stores between 3 and 6 o'clock, making a lot of congestion that otherwise could be avoided if those who were able, would do their shopping earlier in the day. We believe an experiment by you would prove this, and we earnestly solicit your co-operation in the matter.
